

veterans will have to look to the VA for health care. With the cuts proposed for that system, they will also be limited in their ability to get the care they need.

When we called upon our veterans, not one of them said, "Sorry, I cannot afford to serve." When veterans asked their country to keep the promises made to them, how can we say now, "Sorry, we cannot afford it?"

I simply fail to understand how we can repay the very people who fought for us with massive cuts to the medical care they were promised.

We must be vigilant in protecting our veterans and the benefits they were promised. As a Nation, Mr. Speaker, we have a moral obligation to keep the promises we made to our veterans.

DO NOT SACRIFICE THE PEOPLE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of May 12, 1995, the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. HILLARD] is recognized during morning business for 2 minutes.

Mr. HILLARD. Mr. Speaker, I came to Washington to help the American people, and not vote for anything that would hurt them.

The Republican budget would hurt the American people. For a week, the Republicans closed down the Government, sent Federal employees home, kept people from signing up for Social Security, Medicare or veterans' benefits, because they did not want to negotiate in good faith and tell the American people that a tax cut for the wealthy is not needed to balance the budget and would hurt most Americans.

The Republicans want to balance the budget on the backs of the poor, the disabled, the elderly, and children of working mothers so that they can pay for a tax cut for the rich.

I will continue to oppose the tax cuts for the rich, and I will continue to oppose hurting the American people.

If the proposed budget does not strike the tax cut for the rich and provide fairly for the young, the elderly, the poor, and the disabled, it will be a bad budget and I cannot and will not support a bad budget.

HISTORY OF BALANCING THE BUDGET

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of May 12, 1995, the gentleman from Colorado [Mr. MCINNIS] is recognized during morning business for 5 minutes.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, this is an opportunity today to visit with all of you. Of course the last 48 hours we have had a very busy weekend. I think we have come up to a compromise, but I am a little discouraged this morning to see some of my colleagues on the floor come to you and act as if they have been strong warriors for a balanced budget over the period of time that some of them have served in this office.

Let me tell you that all of a sudden, some of my colleagues cannot rush fast enough to embrace the words "balanced budget," so that they can say to the American people, you know, I have been for a balanced budget all this time. The question is not whether or not we balance the budget, the question is how we do it. That is their little wiggle room that some of these people are using.

I think it is important that we look at the history of this country.

A lot of these people that are talking to us, a lot of our colleagues that are talking that way, have served in previous Congresses. We have not had a balanced budget come out of these Chambers in 25 years. The Federal Government has not reduced Federal spending in 40 years. Look at what this deficit is doing and the debt is doing to the American people. Where are they, Johnny-come-latelies; where have they gone? It is about time they embraced a balanced budget.

I tell you it is about time the President, who by the way said when he ran for office he would produce a balanced budget plan in 5 years, then he switched it to 10 years, then he dropped to 7 years, then he went to 8 years, then he went back to 7 years, then he was back to 10, and finally last night, finally last night, we got the President to commit to a 7-year balanced budget.

Why is that so critical for the American people? What is the deficit doing to us? Take a look at what it accrues.

It accrues at $30 million an hour. This Government spends $30 million an hour more than it brings in. The average person in America, each person in America, not the average, excuse me, each person in America owes $18,000 on the Federal debt. For a family of four, what is that, over $60,000, almost $60,000 in the debt for a family of four.

Do you know that a child born this year, a child born this year, will owe out of their lifetime earnings, if we do not do something about this deficit, if the President does not keep his word to do it in a 7-year period of time, that child will owe $180,000 of their lifetime earnings just to pay interest on the Federal debt.

Now some of the preceding speakers have stood up here and said, take a look at the vets, take a look at Medicare, take a look at welfare, take a look at every entitlement program out there. What they are trying to convince all of you is that you could reach a balanced budget without touching entitlement programs. We can. We do not have to cut entitlement programs. We do have to control their growth.

Do not let anyone stand up here in front of you and pretend that we are going to be able to balance the budget of this country without cutting growth on some of these Federal programs. You cannot cut the growth on every other program except entitlement programs, and even have a hope of ever balancing this deficit.

Do you know that if we went out to every Federal agency next year, every

Federal agency out there, and we said to those agencies, look, you do not have to cut one penny out of your budget, you do not have to cut one penny out of your budget, but next year your budget can only grow at a rate of 1 percent, you can only grow at a rate of one penny on the dollar, if we could get the Federal agencies to do that, we would balance this problem, the annual deficit, in probably a 4-year period of time.

Now you are going to hear some of my colleagues say, well, where is this 7 years; where did they get 7 years? Did the Speaker just pull it out of the sky? I can remember when the Speaker explained to us why the 7 years.

You know what he said to us? I thought it made a lot of sense. He said to us, we could balance this budget this year, we could balance it in 4 years, we could balance it in 3 years. Then it would be so harsh on the American people that the hardships would overcome the benefit of the balance of the budget. Seven years is a period of time that, yes, everybody is going to have to pitch in, but it is not going to be especially painful for any particular group.

I take that back, any particular group. We are going to have some pretty basic requirements out there on some groups. For example, we have some able-bodied people in our country who draw Federal benefits because they are not working. They ought to be working. I do not have any problem with saying to those people, you know something, you can work, you are able to work, and you ought to work. I do not think it is particularly harsh on you when we do welfare reform to say, look, we are not going to let this go on forever. So I encourage all of us to work together to get this balanced budget.

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. All time has past expired.

There being no further requests for morning business, pursuant to clause 12, rule I, the House will stand in recess until 2 p.m.

Accordingly (at 1 o'clock and 41 minutes p.m.), the House stood in recess until 2 p.m.

□ 1404

AFTER RECESS

The recess having expired, the House was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. CUNNINGHAM) at 2 o'clock and 4 minutes p.m.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. James David Ford, D.D., offered the following prayer:

With every morning Sun there is the reminder of a new day and with each new day there are occasions to do the works of justice. Teach us, gracious